DAPPO FAQ SHEET

Why the title “Djerba African Open”?

Djerba Golf Club took the initiative for this event and it is the first time IPPA has organized a competition in Africa.

Who are the organizers?

IPPA, the Tunisian Golf Federation and Djerba Golf Club are collaborating to make this a landmark event, with the help of the numerous partner.

Are the players likely to be disappointed with this “maiden” edition?

Definitely not; IPPA is now truly experienced at organizing major events and our Tunisian partners are keen to make sure this will be just the start of more Pitch & Putt events in the future. The trial run with 20 foreign players last November was highly successful;

Is the Acacias course suitable for a major P&P competition?

This is a championship course in every sense of the word; it is well designed and superbly maintained. The most important element in P&P is the quality of the greens and these are of the very highest quality. As it is a “converted” golf course, there are two or three long walks between greens but this is a small price to pay to be able to play here.

Why have a golf competition on Sunday?

Working with golf is IPPA’s “raison d’être” and this is the first time we have combined P&P with golf in a major event so we are looking forward to the reactions of the players. More than half of our members are golf federations.

IPPA works closely with the R&A in St Andrews and they will be watching this innovation with real interest as one of their major concerns today is to improve the pace of play. IPPA endeavours to lead by example in this respect.

Travelling with golf equipment can be expensive!

We are working with Tunisair to get some preferential rates for the event and free transport for golf bags.

Will we have time to visit or will it be just P&P and golf?

This will depend on the length of stay chosen by each player but as we are working with the Tunisian and the Djerbian Tourist offices, many packages will be available at reasonable prices.

Will there be a language problem?

Probably not; Tunisia has many years of experience with international tourism and hotel and golf club staff are fluent in several languages

On 5 November, we want to hear:

“That was great fun – and excellent value for money. We’ll be back!”
